Understanding Russian Verb Conjugation Basics

Before diving into the extensive list, it's important to grasp the fundamentals of how Russian verbs are conjugated.

Verb Aspects: Perfective vs. Imperfective

One unique feature of Russian verbs is the aspect system. Every verb can be either imperfective or perfective:

- Imperfective verbs describe ongoing, repeated, or habitual actions. For example, "читать" (to read).
- Perfective verbs express completed actions or a single event. For example, "прочитать" (to have read).

Many verbs come in pairs that differ by aspect, and understanding this distinction is key to using the correct tense.

Tenses and Moods in Russian

Russian verbs are conjugated across three primary tenses:

- Present tense: Only used with imperfective verbs.
- Past tense: Used with both perfective and imperfective verbs.
- Future tense: For perfective verbs, formed using the verb itself; for imperfective verbs, formed with the auxiliary verb "быть" plus the infinitive.

Additionally, verbs have moods such as:

- Indicative: Stating facts.
- Imperative: Giving commands.
- Conditional: Expressing hypothetical situations (using "бы").
