Setting the Scene: Who Are the Businessman and the Driver?

Their meeting is not just about transportation but about the crossing of two worlds, each with its own set of challenges and experiences.

The Businessman's World

The businessman is portrayed as a person deeply entrenched in the fast-paced corporate environment. He is someone who values efficiency, results, and strategic planning. The Driver's Perspective

On the other hand, the driver represents a grounded, practical viewpoint. His job is to navigate the physical world—traffic, routes, and time constraints—ensuring the businessman reaches his destination safely and on time. However, beyond the surface, the driver embodies patience, experience, and often, wisdom that comes from observing life from a different vantage point.
