edge in solving.

Playful Wordplay and Puns

LA Times crosswords often rely on puns, homophones, and playful language. For example, a clue like “Band with a hit ‘Hey Ya!’” might lead to the answer “OUTKAST.” Knowing these cultural references and seeing how they appear in solutions can help you anticipate similar clues.

Abbreviations and Acronyms

Many clues use abbreviations or acronyms, often indicated subtly. For example, “Dept. in a university” is commonly “ENG” for English or “MATH.” Recognizing these patterns in solutions helps you decode future clues quickly.
